

This is an air supply to the transmission to that we connect. Its function is to assist in shifting gears.

These hoses are supplied by the transmission manufacturer. They are air supply lines for internal operation.